Amazon Blurb: 'A stunning collection of twelve definitive Robert Kime projects, ranging from Bloomsbury to the Bahamas, from the Irish countryside to la France profonde. Magnificent, specially-commissioned photography by Tessa Traeger is accompanied by a text which combines illuminating descriptions of the choices and challenges involved in each project with an account of how this most cultured of designers developed his eye. With a foreword by H.R.H King Charles III, this is the definitive book on Robert Kime, one of the most respected and influential English designers of our time.'

"A definitive book on England's most revered interior designer" The New York Times
